

I absolutely and wholeheartedly support satellite radio. It is the clearest, most beautiful sound produced and I will always be a listener. It gives music such a pure and delightful sound and it's something that simply CANNOT be replicated through normal airplay. I am not a fan of morning radio and cannot escape it, unless I'm listening to XM radio. I avoid the local stations and their morning mix of trash that they think the general population wants to hear. I want to hear pure, clear music on my way to work in the morning. I want to be energized by the time I get there, not depressed by either the smut or the disasterous news of the day before. There is NO sense in getting rid of such a great outlet for true music lovers. I've told everyone I know about the quality and quantity of XM's array of music, news, and entertainment venues and I will always be their biggest fan!
